Information and Communication Technology (ICT) in education is the mode of education that use information and communications technology to support, enhance, and optimize the delivery of information. ICT can lead to an improved student learning and better teaching methods. The Institute follows ICT enabled teaching in addition to the traditional classroom education. The Department of Microbiology organized a skill development programme to improve the Computational skills of the students on 07-01-2020. The session was handled by Dr. Sahila M.M, Assistant Professor, Department of Bioinformatics, SIAS. The session included various methods to include in our day-to-day life to improve the presentation skills of our data received from the wet lab or any other sources.

- Access of course materials through remote devices. Online digital repositories for lectures, course materials, and digital library
- Massive Open Online Courses (MOOCs) like the Coursera and Edx tells us that there is a huge demand for off-the-classroom learning facilities.
- The use of MS word, MS excel, PowerPoint presentation Software, Templates and the use of Basic softwares in result generation,

BEAUTY OF MATHEMATICS

'A Glimpse into Calculus'

DATE:02.11.2019

TIME: 11:00PM TO 3:30PM

VENUE/PLATFORM: SEMINAR HALL

Department has conducted a one day workshop for first year students named A Glimpse into Calculus. Dr. Sudheer, (Associate Professor, Retired from Farook College) has conducted the session . The Objective of the program was to motivate students in mathematical subjects by giving basics of algebra and Calculus. Colonel Nizar Ahammed Seethi (COO, SAFI and SIAS) inaugurated the Workshop with his very motivating words to students. Mr.Abdul Samad C ( Head of the Department ) presided over the Workshop.

Dr. Sudheer has explained basic concepts of Calculus with simple examples. Calculus is the study of how things change. It provides a framework for modelling systems in which there is change, and a way to deduce the predictions of such models. We have been around for a while, and know how things change, more or less. What can calculus add to that? We know lots about how things change. And you have a qualitative notion of calculus. For example, the concept of speed of motion is a notion straight from calculus, though it surely existed long before calculus did and you know lots about it.

In mathematics education, calculus denotes courses of elementary mathematics analysis, which are mainly devoted to the study of functions and limits. The word calculus is a Latin word, meaning originally "small pebble. Because such pebbles were used for calculation, the meaning of the word has evolved and today usually means a method of computation. It is therefore used for naming specific methods of calculation and related theories. Basic Calculus is the study of differentiation and integration. Both concepts are based on the idea of limits and functions. Some concepts like continuity, exponents are the foundation of advanced calculus. Basic calculus explains about the two different types of calculus called "Differential Calculus" and "Integral Calculus". Differential Calculus helps to find the rate of change of a quantity whereas integral calculus helps to find the quantity when the rate of change is known.

Effective Browsing for Social Science Research

Date: 02/08/2019

Time: 1.30 Pm

Venue: Audio Visual Theater

Jawed Hussain Ahdal (Media One TV Online) delivered an academic lecture for PG students on the topic 'Effective Browsing for Social Science Research' on 02/08/2019 at JMC AVT. The program was a joint venture with SIAS Media School and Department of Islamic Studies. In recent years, Social Networking Services (SNSs) are growing in popularity, and generating new articles moment by moment. However, when huge article streams are delivered from the SNS, it is not easy to browse them efficiently for the purpose of research because users would sometimes skip valuable articles. This program helped the students to have an idea about the effective browsing especially in the area of social science research.

FACE TO FACE - Skill Development Programme

Date: 17.06.2019

Department of Food Technology, on 17th June 2020, conducted an online skill development programme- 'Face to Face' to give guidance on How to face an interview. Once students complete their course, they all will have to attend some interviews. So, making the students confident enough to attend any interview is very necessary. This programme was an initiative from the Department of Food Technology in this regard

The programme began by the welcome address of programme coordinator Mrs Sujitha A P, Assistant Professor, Department of Food Technology. It was followed by the felicitation of Head of the Department, Ms.Aiswariya P. Mr. Muhammed Jafer then took over the session and addressed the participants. He then interacted with the students.

For an interview, a person's appearance, deeds, his way of presentation etc matters much. He explained about each of these and demonstrated how one should attend an interview, how to behave in front of an interview board and how to reply each of the questions raised by the interviewer. Students were made to attend the session as interviewee and this really helped them to identify the mistakes committed by each of them. He also explained do's and donts that has to be taken care of when attending an interview and the usual mistakes committed by different attendees in an interview

The session was concluded with the thanks giving by Ms Safeena P A, Assistant Professor, Department of Food Technology. Once the session was over, students were given an opportunity to express their opinion about the session. They all regarded the programme as very useful and they were all very confident to attend any interview in the future. They all expressed their heartfelt gratitude to the resource person and the faculties of Department of Food technology for conducting such a very fruitful session
